Fall 2004 Admissions Exceptions Report

Executive Summary

The University of Missouri's admissions policy makes provision for the admittance of students who do not meet the regular admissions criteria. The Fall 2004 Admissions Exceptions Report is a series of tables summarizing the trends in the University's exceptions policy in three key areas: 1) the percentage of students not meeting the regular criteria; 2) the nature of deficiencies for students not meeting the standard admissions criteria; and 3) the success and retention rates of students meeting the standard admissions criteria compared to students admitted under the exceptions policy. Table 1 shows the change in the number and type of admission exceptions to current University of Missouri admissions policy from Fall 2000 to Fall 2004. Table 2 shows the exceptions to the less rigorous admissions standards of the Missouri Coordinating Board of

Admissions Policy

Technical Notes

The term exception is used to identify students not meeting each and every component of the required combination of ACT test score and high school rank and core course distribution for regular admission. Many students classified as exceptions were admitted because they presented strong credentials in most respects or offered other measures predicting likely success.

A successful student is defined as a student that was enrolled as a first-time, degree-seeking, full-time freshman during Fall 2003 and either: 1) was enrolled only in the fall and had a minimum grade point average (GPA) of 2.0 on a 4.0 scale at the end of the fall semester; or 2) was also enrolled in the spring (full-time or part-time) and had a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.0 at the end of the academic year.

Please note that all students that were successful were not necessarily retained for the fall semester. At the same time, all students that were retained for the fall semester were not necessarily successful during the previous academic year. For example, a student with a GPA greater than 2.0 may not have returned for the fall semester. On the other hand, a student that had a GPA below 2.0 may have returned for the fall semester.
